They could be designed by education companies or publishers, larger commercial. All stakeholders – administrators, policy boards, teachers, vendors, parents, and students – will be required to re-think their role in the ecosystem we call education. Students should be encouraged to think about their own comfort zones when it comes to privacy and their own definition of community. Write a Review. Are students expected to do all their homework on the device, do only some of their homework, or use only a few apps?
