If the dating is accurate this stone was used years before the Mount Toba eruption of 71, years ago. Neanderthals were apparently no match for the technologically advanced fully modern humans who invaded Europe and evidence for interbreeding of these two types of hominids is equivocal. Some scholars believed that Cain's motives were plain jealousy and lust. Scientists can tell this by looking at their DNA. The items listed here are provided courtesy of our friends at the General Church of the New Jerusalem. Even back then, the blue-eyed blond was not only in demand, but also definite other words, they had some sort of advantage. Here there are discoveries of a couple of skulls dated to roughly years ago that seem to possess a mixture of classic Homo erectus and Homo sapiens traits.
